HON. SHEILA JACKSON LEE

OF TEXAS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Friday, May 7, 2021

Ms. JACKSON LEE. Madam Speaker, I am a proud progressive Texas Democrat in the tradition of the late Governor Ann Richards and my predecessors Barbara Jordan and Mickey Leland so it may hurt more than help them to say that Congresswoman LIZ CHENEY of Wyoming, the third-ranking Republican in the House, Senator MITT ROMNEY, the 2012 Republican standard-bearer, and President George W. Bush, the last Republican president to amass a popular vote majority, exceed 50 percent in approval ratings, and win reelection all have my undying respect for the manner in which they have stood steadfast in defense of the Constitution, the country, and their principles in the face of brutal, withering, and unwarranted attack by their party's leadership and rank and file.

All of them have repeatedly rejected and denounced publicly, unequivocally, and fiercely the Republican "Big Lie" that the 2020 presidential election was stolen and rife with fraud. They are modern-day profiles in courage.

They all embody John F. Kennedy's dictum that "sometimes party loyalty demands too much."

Like many Members of Congress, in the course of my service I have found often that vigorous debate and acceptance of different views, if allowed to be heard, can result in socially transformative and life-affirming legislation, such as the 1964 Civil Rights Act, the 1965 Voting Rights Act, and the 1994 Violence Against Women Act.

Some might think it surprising for a member of an opposing party to go against the convention of non-interference when one's adversary is in the process of inflicting harm upon itself.

I have chosen to ignore this convention because I am a firm believer in the promise of a more perfect union.

And I believe in America and its future.

Our children listen to and absorb what we say and do.

We cannot let them see the brutalization of voices that are telling the truth about January 6 and the attack on the Citadel of Democracy without defending those voices.

I believe these persons are patriots and I join them in my affection for the written values of this nation evidenced in our Constitution.

I am a constitutional patriot who believes Bush, ROMNEY, CHENEY have put America first.

Congresswoman CHENEY, the House Republican Conference Chair, has drawn fire for being unrelenting in her defense of constitutional government and for not backing down one iota from her claim that the domestic insurrection led by terrorists who stormed the U.S. Capitol on January 6, 2021, for the avowed purpose of disrupting Congress from performing its constitutionally mandated duty to tally the votes cast by presidential electors and announce the results to the nation and the world was the intentional result of Donald Trump's handiwork:

The President of the United States summoned this mob, assembled the mob, and lit the flame of this attack. Everything that followed was his doing. None of this would have happened without the President. The President could have immediately and forcefully intervened to stop the violence. He did not. There has never been a greater betrayal by a President of the United States of his office and his oath to the Constitution.

We cannot ignore the fact that these domestic terrorists were intending to kill officers of the Congress, the Vice-President, other Members, and law enforcement officers if need be.

Sen. ROMNEY of Utah, a state carried by Trump by more than 20 percentage points and the 2012 Republican presidential nominee, is the only Republican senator who voted to convict and remove Trump from office for high crimes and misdemeanors. Twice.

Former President George W. Bush was one of the first Republicans to congratulate President-elect Joe Biden and Vice-President-elect KAMALA HARRIS on their election victory and has stated that the GOP is embarking on a "suicide path" with its adherence to the Big Lie and flirtation with the idea of forming a congressional "Anglo-Saxon Caucus."

More Republican leaders are needed to join this "Chorus of the Courageous," to put country over party, and to do their part to preserve and keep real the American boast that this is a land of government of, by, and for the people.

At several moments in our Nation's past, men and women of principle, courage, and unyielding commitment to the Nation's founding ideals have stood forward at moments of maximum peril and danger in defense of the country's enduring values and principles.

Men like Congressman L. Brooks Hayes of Arkansas, who alienated powerful governor Orval E. Faubus during the 1957 integration crisis when he refused to support Faubus' effort to keep the Little Rock public schools racially segregated.

Or like U.S. Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., U.S. House Minority Leader John Rhodes, R-Ariz., and U.S. Senate Minority Leader Hugh Scott, R-Pa., who went to the White House to tell Richard Nixon, the winner of one of the greatest landslide victories in history, that he must resign, or he would be impeached by the House of Representatives and convicted by the Senate.

Or women like U.S. Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine, the first woman to serve both the House and the Senate and the first Republican senator to denounce the demagogue Sen. Joe McCarthy during the height of the Red Scare. In her famous "Declaration of Conscience" speech to the Senate, she said:

"Those of us who shout the loudest about Americanism in making character assassinations are all too frequently those who, by our own words and acts, ignore some of the basic principles of Americanism." [. . .]

"It is high time we stopped thinking politically as Republicans and Democrats about elections and started thinking patriotically as Americans about national security based on individual freedom."

In perpetuating Trump's Big Lie, Republican leaders are cravenly choosing narrow partisan interests over the national interest.

They are rejecting the wisdom of the founding father of conservatism, the English statesman Sir Edmund Burke, who said:

[The national state] is to be looked on with other reverence; because it is not a partnership in things subservient only to the gross animal existence of a temporary and perishable nature. It is a partnership in all science; a partnership in all art; a partnership in every virtue, and in all perfection. As the ends of such a partnership cannot be obtained in many generations, it becomes a partnership not only between those who are living, but between those who are living, those who are dead, and those who are to be born.

Burke understood, as did conservative statesmen, political leaders, and scholars that an elected official's duty was not simply to be an "instructed delegate," parroting and following their constituents' temporary and inchoate passions, but also to be an "enlightened trustee" bringing experience and judgment to elevate and inform the public discourse and understanding.

What is needed today is a semblance of the will and courage of Abraham Lincoln, the greatest Republican of all. In his famous 1860 Cooper Union Address, Lincoln exhorted and inspired adherents to hold true to their beliefs in equality and that slavery was a moral evil:

What will convince that we do not threaten their property? This and this only: cease to call slavery wrong and join them in calling it right. All they ask, we can grant, if we think slavery right. All we ask, they can grant if they think it wrong. Right and wrong is the precise fact upon which depends the whole controversy. Thinking it wrong, as we do, can we yield?

Let us not grope for some middle ground between right and wrong. Let us not search in vain for a policy of don't care on a question about which we do care. Nor let us be frightened by threats of destruction to the government.

Let us have faith that right makes might, and in that faith, let us, to the end, dare to do our duty[.]

This is the moral and political courage that is so conspicuous by its absence in Republican leaders today. America's strength lies in the ability of everyone—Democrats, Republicans, and independents—to speak truth loudly and proudly in the face of adversity, and to power.

HONORING ERIC MCCLURE

HON. H. MORGAN GRIFFITH

OF VIRGINIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Friday, May 7, 2021

Mr. GRIFFITH. Madam Speaker, I rise in honor of Eric Wayne McClure of Abingdon, Virginia, who died on May 2, 2021 at the age of 42. Mr. McClure was a longtime NASCAR driver and owner.

Mr. McClure was born on December 11, 1978 and was a native of Chilhowie, Virginia. Racing was part of his family: his uncle Larry was an owner of the Morgan-McClure Motorsports team. Eric McClure graduated from Emory & Henry College. He began his racing career in 2003; throughout its duration, he made 288 starts in the Xfinity Series and three starts in the NASCAR Cup Series. His best finish came in 2013 at Daytona, when he placed eighth in the Xfinity Series season opener. Health challenges ended his driving career in 2016. He also formed Martin-McClure Racing in 2015 as an owner with former driver Hal Martin. The team won two races in the K&N Pro Series with drivers Chad Finchum and Austin Cindric.

Mr. McClure is survived by his parents Jerry and Sue McClure; his sister Emily Brandt and her husband Robert; mother of his children Miranda McClure; and his seven daughters Mabreigh, Maryleigh, Mirabella, Merritt, Myanna, Meraline, and Melania. He is also survived by his special friend Keira Tibbs and her two daughters. I offer my condolences on their loss.

HONORING ANNIE ORSINI AS IOWAN OF THE WEEK

HON. CYNTHIA AXNE

OF IOWA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Friday, May 7, 2021

Mrs. AXNE. Madam Speaker, I rise today to ask the House of Representatives to join me in honoring Annie Orsini, Assistant Principal at Westridge Elementary School and Jordan Creek Elementary School in West Des Moines, as Iowan of the Week.

Assistant Principals across Iowa's Third Congressional District and our entire country play a critically important role in the overall success of the schools where they serve—working tirelessly to foster strong relationships between the school and the community, establish a positive and inclusive learning environment for students, make sure parents are informed and involved, effectively lead both instructional and support staff, monitor the day-to-day logistical operations of their educational facilities, and more. An Assistant Principal's plate is always full, always being added to, and often includes a plethora of 'other duties as assigned' tasks to complete. Our schools, students, and communities all benefit from their dedication to making a positive impact on early education.

In Annie's case, her efforts are doubled as she serves as Assistant Principal for two elementary schools. With roughly 1,500 students and families and approximately 125 instructional and support staff under her care, she has a big job to tackle every single week. Whether it's mentoring teachers, analyzing data to create impactful plans, addressing logistical and operational issues such as transportation and scheduling, working on extra- and co-curricular programs, or nurturing positive peer relationships between students, her days are filled with meeting the needs of others. She sets the vision, inspires others, maximizes available resources, and constantly innovates in order to create an optimal learning environment for students and staff.

Annie is an educator who truly believes not only in the power of teaching and empowering kids to learn, but also in the very real impact effective teaching has on the system as a whole. Her efforts extend beyond improving more traditional classroom instruction of subjects like math, English, and history to include social emotional learning and addressing mental health. She's working with staff on efforts that help kids get organized, show empathy, make decisions, see other people's perspective, and more. In being more intentional about nurturing both the head and the heart, Annie is creating environments in which students can feel safe, special, and develop their unique gifts before striking out into the world.

Throughout the last year, the COVID-19 pandemic has placed incredible burdens on many areas of our society, and few places have been as directly challenged as our schools. Originally planned for implementation over three years, Annie and her team had to roll out a scaled-up online learning program in only six months. They had to figure out how to get kids to school safely and keep them safe while they were in the classroom, and neither challenge came with a playbook. Time and again, Assistant Principals like Annie have been called upon to work even harder than usual to best support students, educators, support staff, families, and their communities as everyone navigates the global health crisis.

For that reason amongst others, I am proud to support a House Resolution calling for April 5th–9th to be recognized as National Assistant Principals Week. These folks deserve our thanks and this opportunity for all Americans to reflect on their meaningful contributions to our communities.

For nearly two decades, Annie Orsini has dedicated herself to furthering the growth and achievement of young students, teachers, and local schools. Her passion is clear and inspiring. Each day she makes a difference, and our future is brighter because of her efforts. I am proud to recognize her as our Iowan of the Week.

IN RECOGNITION OF DEPUTY CHIEF JIMMY HUGHES ON RE-
CEIVING THE 2020 ROBERT JACK-
SON MEMORIAL AWARD

HON. RICHARD HUDSON

OF NORTH CAROLINA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Friday, May 7, 2021

Mr. HUDSON. Madam Speaker, I rise today to honor Deputy Chief Jimmy Hughes on receiving the 2020 Robert Jackson Eury Memorial Award.

Deputy Chief Hughes started his career with the Concord Police Department in 1998 as a patrol officer. He rose through the ranks before being promoted to Deputy Chief in 2019 by CPD Chief Gary Gacek, and previously served with CPD in the Special Investigations Unit, Criminal Investigations, and the Office of Management & Planning. He was an original member of the SWAT team, where he also served as SWAT commander. Jimmy is a graduate of the Police Executive Research Forum—Senior Management Institute for Police—Session 67 and a 1998 graduate of Pfeiffer University with a BS in Business Management/Finance.

Throughout his career, Deputy Chief Hughes has worked to establish relationships and partnerships with the community, fellow law enforcement officers, and criminal justice professionals. Jimmy is hard working, driven, and has said that he attributes his success and longevity to the Golden Rule, treating people the way he wants to be treated. Deputy Chief Hughes is married and has five children. In his spare time, Jimmy enjoys restoring classic vehicles.

The Robert Jackson Eury Memorial Award is presented in memory of Robert Jackson Eury, a man who lost his life in the line of duty while serving as a Cabarrus County law enforcement officer. This award keeps Mr. Eury's legacy alive through officers who share his same admirable and commendable spirit in Cabarrus County. Deputy Chief Jimmy Hughes fits the mold of esteemed law enforcement officers in our community set by Robert Eury.

Madam Speaker, please join me today in congratulating Deputy Chief Jimmy Hughes for receiving the 2020 Robert Jackson Eury Memorial Award. We all wish him well as he continues to make a positive impact in our community.

IN RECOGNITION OF HONORING THE MILITARY SPOUSES OF
CAMBRIA AND SOMERSET COUN-TIES

HON. JOHN JOYCE

OF PENNSYLVANIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Friday, May 7, 2021

Mr. JOYCE of Pennsylvania. Madam Speaker, I rise today to recognize the military spouses of Cambria and Somerset Counties and to commemorate the 12th Annual Military Spouse Appreciation Day Ceremony in Johnstown, Pennsylvania.

In 1984, President Ronald Reagan established that the Friday before Mother's Day would be Military Spouses Appreciation Day, which honors the service and sacrifice of military spouses.

Like their partners in uniform, military spouses also answer the call to serve our nation. Their unwavering commitment to our servicemembers and families is a key part of America's story and success.

As the husband of a Naval officer, I understand firsthand the challenges that many military spouses face, and I am incredibly grateful for their role in supporting our Armed Forces and the defense of our Nation.

Today's ceremony, made possible by the Johnstown Veteran Community Initiatives, Wessel & Company, and the American Red Cross, is a well-deserved opportunity to recognize these outstanding Pennsylvanians who have sacrificed so much.

On behalf of Pennsylvania's 13th Congressional District, it is my privilege to honor the military spouses of Cambria and Somerset Counties and to thank them for their service and sacrifice for our Nation. On Military Spouse Appreciation Day and every day of the year, I ask that Pennsylvanians join me in praying for the wellbeing and perseverance of our local military families—as well as for the peace and safety of our Nation.
